THE FIRST 200 YEARS

A knowledge of American history is an invitation to experience the accomplishment, drama, tragedy and hope of an infant nation struggling to grow up. Sturdy, determined pioneers hacked away at the edges of a raw continent and, with blunders and achievements alike, modeled a country with a spirited nature and a united commitment to individual liberty for every one of its citizens. Americans, great and not so great, have given us a heritage to carry on and improve upon. Farmers and soldiers, industrialists and merchants, dreamers and leaders, are all there in two centuries of progress.

But the maturing isn't finished. You'll find the boundaries of growth as endless today as when our forefathers first envisioned them. You can seek out your own destiny with the wisdom and judgement which comes with re-creation of the past. Your knowledge, dreams and industry will carry on through many more centuries of living history.

"Everything that is right or reasonable pleads for separation. The blood of the slain, the weeping voice of nature cries, 'tis time to part.'" — Thomas Paine

CHAPTERS OF AMERICAN HISTORY

The Stamp Act of 1765 was an attempt by England to tax items that were wholly American. The colonists reacted in seething resentment which erupted into angry protestations. The first blood of the American Revolution was spilled during one such incident at Boston in 1770. Several Americans lost their lives over a snowball thrown at a British sentry.

In the fight to achieve commerce equality, the United States found itself in a naval war over shipping lanes. Fort McHenry was heroically held during a British naval bombardment, and the stars and stripes still flew after a night of hard fighting. The next morning Francis Scott Key penned the immortal words of what would become the national anthem.

Settlers had to have permanent access to the new lands, so canals and bridges were built to carry stages and wagon trains loaded with machinery destined for settlements in the West. The pioneers foresaw great wealth in the cheap acreage that was available.

Frontiersmen cleared the wilderness, built settlements and drove back the Indians. The Pony Express and the telegraph became primary means of communication.

Agriculture was the wealth of the country. American inventions of the time were often related to working the soil. The McCormick Reaper, mowing machines, textile looms and the cotton gin were instrumental in the settling of new frontiers.

In 1848, James Marshall found gold in the race of a sawmill he was building for John Sutter at Coloma, California. The lust to "get rich quick" was the force behind this biggest and gaudiest gold rush ever.

While "gold rush fever" gripped the country, states were increasingly more divided on the slavery issue. Civil war broke out in the East. This "Brothers War" was bitterly fought and, though the scars remain even today, slavery was abolished.

Cities grew at an alarming pace, often without regard to the limits of safety. The great Chicago fire of 1871 burned the bustling cattle market empire beyond recognition. But the pioneer spirit was not broken. Chicagoans began rebuilding and preparations were underway to celebrate the 100th birthday of the country.

The "Iron Horse," carrying homesteaders, greatly helped settlement of the new country. The first transcontinental railroad connected the country at Promontory Summit, Utah, on May 10, 1869.

Transportation was setting the pattern for the American way of life. The country became a mobile society with electric trolleys, automobiles, farm machinery, and bicycles. All the rage. Along with the accessibility of travel came a new era of nationalism.

A World War called upon the nation's young men to unite and fight. After the war in Europe, the nation pulled itself together and industry flourished once again. A carefree America buried war memories in the new moving pictures, telephones, light bulbs, electric generators, stock market ticker tape machines, phonographs and a wealth of inventions from the fertile minds of its young inventors. Baseball became the national sport and prohibition was law.

Black Thursday, October 24, 1929, saw the American stock market crash to the lowest level in history. Panic set in as the unemployment level skyrocketed. The country was in its worst economic crisis. Slowly, but surely, the wounds of the "crash," the "dust bowl," and poverty healed.

The steel industry geared up for the revival while rumors were whispered in the Roosevelt administration of another impending war. The nation's leaders scoffed, until December 7, 1941 Pearl Harbor!

Industrial production reached a peak during the war years. Upon their return from four years of battle, the veterans forged ahead with an eye on a "better life for everyone." Several moderate recessions in the 50's and 60's reminded cautious citizens of past decades.

Huge strides were being taken in the scientific field. Television became a part of every family's life. National events were household topics — while they happened — thanks to the new medium. Individuals and groups were seen "on the tube" as they advocated new social reform, or justice, or special causes of their own. TV gave individuals and political systems power greater than ever before. Audio-visual journalism had made its impact.

Nearly 100 years of struggling for civil liberties were realized when President Lyndon Baines Johnson signed the Civil Rights Act of 1964 into law. The Act outlawed segregation in any form.

The seventies shed light on a new trouble for the nation as it approached its 200th birthday. The world's energy sources and natural resources were being used up faster than they could be replenished. Americans once again waded into a new frontier. The "energy crisis" and "ecology" were prominent words in the language. Ways to save nature from the neglect of mankind and ways of preserving precious fuel without damaging that balance of nature were the objectives of Americans across the country.

Earth's crises spurred Americans into further pioneering. This time — outer space. American astronauts were the first on the surface of the moon and the U.S. was first to build a "sky-lab" for more scientific study.

America is still learning and growing after a mere 200-year infancy. The original determination of our forefathers was told again in the words of Neil Armstrong as he made the first step on the moon — "a small step for man, but a giant step for mankind."

THE CHANGING NATION

Ownership of land had been just a dream to most of the colonists from feudal England. With the great expanse of cheap land opening up in the West, the dream became reality.

The Louisiana Purchase of 1803 opened the first sizable frontier in the Midwest, but the nation was not ready for it yet. It took a growing market in the East, where land was getting high-priced and scarce, and development of good transportation, to really start the frontier movement.

The Gold Rush caused hordes of settlers to take various routes to the Pacific Coast and its yellow riches. The railroads brought farmers and ranchers, along with the miners, who decided to stop all along the routes and build their homes. Railroads were instrumental in the quick civilization of the West, bringing people in numbers so large that the resentful Indians were finally pushed back into unwanted and infertile areas.

America became a haven for immigrants from every nation as freedom beckoned them to the teeming cities of the East, the plains, and the rich west coast farmlands.

Sick of the Civil War and with their own lands divided up and lost, many Southerners set out to "begin again" in the virgin territories. "Westering" soon became the national tradition as North and South moved together toward a new life. Americanism was advanced socially, by the hard-working, bare-fisted types who settled the frontiers.

NECESSITY IS THE MOTHER OF

Without realizing it, England instilled in the colonists the individual purpose and ingenuity that necessity breeds. With trade goods cut to a minimum, determined young leaders of the time set out to find ways of surviving without support from the Mother Country

Agricultural methods and machines and labor saving devices were designed by our forefathers. As frontiers opened, Yankee genius had to conquer natural barriers in the wild new country, so suspension bridges were invented and methods of transportation were perfected for the purpose of opening the untamed areas. Later they sought to section off the land with the revolutionary and controversial invention – barbed wire

Cooper's 1-horsepower Tom Thumb train in 1830 and later, automobiles like the first Model T, and the 4-horsepower airplane; became American modes of travel from city to city and coast to coast

Americans knew that the fertile lands of this nation would produce unequalled harvests if machines were designed to take over for man. They knew also that trade routes were difficult to travel and manufacturing would have to be done close to home. The cotton gin, textile looms, drill presses and a reaper which could cut six times as much grain as a hand scythe were some of the tools invented

Protection for themselves and for their young country prodded inventors like Eli Whitney to perfect firearms and others to work on plans for the first submarine. Young inventors like Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas Edison (called the nation's most valuable citizen) visualized machines that would light the country and open up communication with those in the far corners of the nation. The telephone, telegraph, phonograph and the first light bulb were discovered in the late 1800's and early twentieth century. This American way of doing for oneself inspired many to become inventors in their own right. Some sought to save labor and mass produce for profit while others envisioned not only riches but excitement and adventure as they discovered ways to defy nature

Throughout the past 200 years the American mind has been unleashed to take whatever paths necessary to fulfill the needs. In the last half-century, the pace of discovery has been overwhelming and inventions for the taming of the universe lie in the grasp of America while the habit of "finding a way" is ingrained in its people. The seeds of industrial America were sown by these inventors resulting in today's mechanized society

THEY MADE THEIR MARK

Men and women who helped shape America's history

THOMAS PAINE a pamphlet Quaker inventor, wrote the influential Common Sense, which inspired the American Revolution. His work is a common-sense, plain-language and aspirational that have remained part of American culture to this day.

DANIEL WEBSTER a career and went on to become the first Secretary of the Treasury, which aided him.

DOROTHEA DIX worked her entire adult life for reform of the insane and mental institutions in the mid-1800s. The first state hospital in the nation at Trenton, New Jersey, bears her name.

The creator of the Cherokee alphabet, SEQUOYIA was an artist, writer and silversmith. He used a simple, 821 English primer to compose the characters. The famous redwood tree of the Pacific coast bears his name.

Just as JOHN MARSHALL established the principle of federalism, so JOHN MARSHALL was the first to see the presidential declaration of Congress as a presidential act. He served through five administrations, from 1801 to 1835.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS learned to read and write secretly and at 21 moved to England. He was an ardent abolitionist, campaigning tirelessly for Negro suffrage and civil rights.

EMMA SMITH was the first woman to be elected to the office of the President of the United States. She organized relief for Jews and helped fugitives from the Underground Railroad to establish colonies in America.

AMELIA BLOOMER was the first woman to wear the dress she adopted during her campaign for equal rights for women. Though ridiculed until she gave up the costume, the term "bloomer" came to symbolize woman's right to individual freedom.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN epitomized the American dream of a man ascending to the highest office of the land. He was superbly skilled at using his words to bring people into the fold. He was the first President of the United States to be elected to the office of the President.

HARRIET BEECHER STOWE wrote Uncle Tom's Cabin in an effort to make the whole nation realize the inhumanity of slavery. Her book inspired more of the most popular and controversial plays on the American stage. The Civil War was kindled by the work.

HORACE GREELEY'S admission to the "Go West young man" was a rallying cry of the pioneers of America. He was founder and editor of the New York Tribune. He was best known for his philosophy of "reform and progress" and his unsuccessful bid for the Presidency in 1872.

JOSEPH PULITZER was the first journalist to reach a truly massive audience. His New York World newspaper was the symbol of yellow journalism with its sensationalism aimed at the common man.

ANDREW CARNEGIE was a giant in the railroad and industries. He believed that it was the duty of a rich man to distribute his wealth during his lifetime. To that end he established 2800 libraries and more throughout America.

A lifetime passion for machinery led HENRY FORD to Detroit where, in 1896, he completed his first motor vehicle. The Ford Motor Company manufactured the first Model T in 1908.

One of the most elementary symbols of the American government was established when J. EDGAR HOOVER and his Federal Bureau of Investigation. Given set out to study. His career spanned over 40 years.

The motion picture industry was revolutionized in America and DAVID WARK GRIFFITH became known as the father of the film art and king of directors. In his work in this genre, his camera techniques were the pioneering steps of the industry.

Serving an unprecedented four terms as President of the United States, FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT was a popular leader who made extensive use of radio addresses to explain his plans and generate support to push them through Congress.

ROBERT FROST's poetry was near universal and well-received and sold the most of any American poet. He was a winner of the Pulitzer Prize and has been called the greatest of American poets.

A plain, homely woman with remarkable appeal to the masses who was always in the thick of things. She was the first lady of the United States and a champion of political and social reform.

THURGOOD MARSHALL is the first Negro to serve as a justice of the Supreme Court. His legal career was aimed primarily at civil rights cases.

The crippling polio epidemic was conquered by DR. JONAS SALK in 1953 after more than 25 years of research. Polio was reduced by 95% in less than ten years. SALK's research continues in California at the Salk Institute.

MARTIN LUTHER KING was a leader in the cause of civil rights. He had been a pastor before turning to the cause of segregation. His leadership earned him the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964. He was assassinated by James Earl Ray in 1968.

The first astronaut JOHN GLENN started America's travels in outer space when he became the first American to orbit the earth. He had been an aviator in World War I and a test pilot in peacetime.

GERALD R. FORD, the first President to achieve the office without an election, in 1974 through a series of scandalous events, the Nixon administration collapsed and FORD reached the presidency through approval by Congress.

Imagine buying that acre of land you have spotted for $1.25! Or even at the higher price of $10. Those are the prices offered to our founding fathers to encourage settlement of the wilderness areas of this nation.

A stage wasn't the most comfortable way to go, but you could get from city to city for as little as $3 — at the amazing pace of six miles per hour.

Compare today's wages with a 12-hour day in the early 1800's. A man earned 50¢ a day. Of course his dollar bought a little more than today's. Butter in 1820 was about 5¢/lb in the Midwest; eggs, 3¢/doz; corn, 6¢/bu.; wheat, 25¢/bu.; and a cow could be bought for $5.

With travel becoming the American tradition, you could choose train, wagon, horseback or the water. A canal ride with bed and board included averaged 3 or 4¢ per mile. And when you reached your destination, you could sit down to a 5- or even 10-course meal for 25¢ (ladies, 20¢, in consideration of appetite).

Farmers in the early 1800's could own the famous McCormack Reaper for a mere $100. But the Civil War increased prices as the machine became the first item farmers could buy on time payments for 1 — at $1.50.

A good suit of clothes then might cost $1.95 and ladies waists (blouses) were marketed for 49¢ to $3.50 with a whole dress pattern priced at 15¢.

Cookstoves — "quality-satisfaction guaranteed," could cost you $29.25 at $4 per month and a dandy heating stove could set you back as much as $5.73 and up. The first electric refrigerator cost $900 — which might be enough to make you faint on your 1907 fainting couch that had cost a mere $7.50.

Your new baby traveled in the — fashion in a wicker sleeping coach (stroller) for the sum of $12.04. If you had $1,500 in 1903 you could show off in one of the first automobiles.

Ah, those were the days. Some of the current prices are reminiscent of those days, but at frontier prices, which were a whole different story. Hardy pioneers had to pay $2 a pound for sugar, too. And the same for a pound of coffee or pepper. Those items were only 15¢ per pound back in civilized St. Louis. Flour was marked up 100% — to the frontiersmen and during the famous Gold Rush, that precious commodity went for $400 a barrel!

'76 As We Saw It Pass

'76 from our point of view
can be seen in many different ways, but most of the memories
are of our final days at school.

From the first football game
to the last pep assembly,
the memories still linger,
still warm in our hearts.

All the times together,
In many different classes,
The voices and faces are gone,
but we can still remember.

From the first day of practice,
to the state tournaments,
we will always recall,
all the thoughts of victory.

The long days of preparation for the senior play will result in fond memories
for the rest of our lives.

All the various trips,
to new and different places,
will remain in our minds,
never to be forgotten.

So think of it not as a burden,
for admit it, it was fun.
The friends we made will be like friends we will never have again.

The school year is over,
and all our acquaintances are gone,
but we must never forget,
'76 from our point of view.

The Future Is Ours

What we Have Learned

The summer time is past and gone,
And a shift arises in the air;
Our fun and pleasure days are done,
As we "hit-the-books" with little care.

Our bodies yearn to be set free,

To sway with a load much lighter.

Exams approach so swiftly,
How long will these times be here to stay,
With the teachers' ways to crafty?

I feel a warm draft swirl about,

The year is ending, I think I'll shout,
But has the new knowledge made us wise?

What we have

Graduation day to me
Is like the shining waves upon the sea.
To things unknown, the Great Beyond.

Along my way, a few seeds I'll sow.

What we have

Yesterday is then, the past.
It is for remembering, not wishing it back
Endless years hiding it.

It is for living and making our world a its' not easy, but you have to meet all the

Tomorrow is when, the future.
It is for exploring and searching for new horizons.
Don't fear the death tomorrow brings.
For it is in dying that you are born to eternal life.

Carol Barnes '79

How soon man forgets what from others he's learned,
But how long he remembers the knowledge hard earned.

Dawn McCurdy '79

Like the works of a clock, the human life is

Or perhaps a little behind.

Our life ticks away,
Hour by hour, minute by minute.
Perhaps one clock is not repaired;
it then dies.
But the beat of life remains thru eternity

SENIORS

"Yesterday Is Not Ours To Recover, But Tomorrow Is Ours To Win."

As you look at this picture you see a corner, or many corners. To us, they represent the corners of our minds. Looking back around these corners, we see the times and memories they represent. In future years when we look through our past, we will see that the hard years spent in school were the simplest, most care-free years of our lives.

Juniors Continue

Starting out the second half of their high school years, juniors find themselves acquiring more seniority and responsibility. They must present the Homecoming dance and the Junior-Senior Prom, both of which require the effort and cooperation of all juniors. The junior year is not all work and no play, however. Juniors have been caught stacking lockers and playing pranks on both students and faculty.

We Are On Our Way, We Charted Our Course

Future

I look upon the future,
as dreams to come,
For my past to fade,
and my tomorrows to appear.
I want the best to come.
To make up for the losses I've had.
I want my future to shine
like the sun,
and spread happiness to all.
Happiness . . . Yes, that's what I want-- a future full of happiness.

Genesis

T'was the night before school's out,
and all through the halls,
everyone was busy,
marking on walls.

T'was the last day for seniors,
and in every room,
senioritis was filling underclassmen with gloom.

T'was the last day of spring,
and every piece of grass,
was being defiled,
by feet of lad and lass,

T'was the end of the month,
the end of all strife,
t'was the very first day,
of the rest of my life.

Ken Campbell '76

A Poem to me

Keep your head straight,
it feels pretty good.
Know what you're doing,
You'll be glad you could.
Know who you're with,
You should.

Keep your head straight,
It's just as much fun.
Don't get do down graded.
Don't come so undone.
Conquer it now.
You'll find that you've won.

Keep your head straight.
It'll save you some sorrow.
And always remember,
You'll feel good tomorrow.

Jane Hunt '76

Standing, alone by myself,
Looking toward tomorrow.

I wonder If it will

Be like today, or

Something like yesterday.

But I guess I'll take it

Day by day and hope

For another tomorrow.

OUR NATION'S HERITAGE

Who made our nation what it is today?
 Was it Washington or Lincoln or Faraday?
 Was it the colonists who broke from England's strong hold,
 Or was it the great Columbus, as I have been told?
 Was it Paul Revere who rode miles, late at night,
 Or was it John Paul Jones, who had not begun to fight?
 Was it Thomas A. Edison, who first saw the light,
 Or was it Franklin, testion electricity with his Kite?
 Was it Neil Armstrong, first man on the moon,
 Or was it that rugged pioneer, Daniel Boone?
 Was it the brave men, during Pearl Harbor Cays,
 Or was it Francis Key, who wrote a song through the haze?
 Is it the farmers, tillers of the soil,
 Or is it our enemies who make our bolland boll?
 Was it the hurt of the Civil War,
 That made us need someone more and more?
 Someone to pick us up when we fall,
 Could it be the Creator of us all?

Kelly McEntee '79

Contrary to popular belief,
 There are five seasons to a year--
 Winter, Spring, Summer, Fall, and Mondays.

"Our parents' fatal disease"

Parents must have a hard life.
 It's a wonder they don't die from worry/tis!
 Their questions"
 Where were you?
 Who were you with?
 What were you doing?
 Why weren't you home on time?
 SOMEDAY we'll appreciate it.

Kim Barnes '77

A fresh, fresh new raindrop . . . alone.
 Daring to be h n self, separate from others.
 The raindrop falls, a distinct ndividual raindrop . . .
 Then it hits the ground and becomes just a part of the puddle.

A Time For Decisions

The Ant

Right now I'm looking at an ant,
Who tries climbing a rock

A tremendous effort
he does display.
Why can't more people
act this way?
And when at last
he reaches his goal,
his daily role

Future

I look upon the future,
as dreams to come;
For my past to fade,

To make up for the losses I've had
I want my future to shine
like the sun,
and spread happiness to all.
Happiness . . . Yes, that's what I want--
a future full of happiness.

Jody Branch '78

Boy, it's been a great 200 years to be congratulated for what you've done.
You've suffered and triumphed, from the Revolutionary to the Viet Nam war, yet you've never failed to raise your

Fantasy
Fantasy.
They call it
insanity,
dreams,
foolishness,
But we need it.
